Cease-Fire Is Hanging In Balance

Red Radio Hints No Change In Talks Site

TOKYO (Wednesday)—(AP)—Efforts to end the Korean war by negotiation hung in delicate balance today.

The communist radio hinted the war would refuse to agree on the allied proposal to move the talks to neutral ground.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, talked confidently of the allies fighting the war to a successful end should the truce talks blow up.

North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung was no less confident of victory for communist forces. In a message to Chinese communist Gen. Peng Teh Hual, broadcast by Peking radio, he expressed hope that the Chinese can "win still greater victories in the noble struggle to wipe out the common enemy of the Korean and Chinese people—the American aggressors."

Seventh Day Of Silence

The United Nations command waited through the seventh straight day Tuesday for a formal communist reply to the U. N. proposal for shifting the talks to Songhyon, a village in no-man's land six miles southeast of Kaesong, original conference site.

Bradley, who flew back to Tokyo Tuesday night from a two-day inspection of the Korean front, was asked about a possible return to Kaesong, where the reds suspended negotiations on Aug. 23.

"It all depends on the circumstances," he said. "We've suggested a place with equal rights. So far we have had no answer."

Unofficially, the communist Pyongyang radio in a commentary early today did provide an answer. Frequently the red-controlled radio reflects official opinion at the time. It said:

"The delay in resumption of the truce talks hinges not in a change of its site. It lies, as Gen. (Matthew B.) Ridgway himself well knows, in the violation of the neutrality zone."

"The Americans are using the delay in truce talks as an excuse to launch new assaults. We will not listen to any conspiracy that willfully aims at breaking up the truce talks."

After visiting some U. N. fighting units in Korea and talking with Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth army commander, Bradley was confident the U. N. has enough manpower to "keep anyone from running over us."

"I don't think the communists can hurt us," he told correspondents.

County Fair Strictly Local:

October Pawnee Exhibition A Success

BY JOHN SWANSON
(Star Staff Writer)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—Proof that county fairs don't have to be held at the usual time, nor line their midways with games of chance in order to be successful was shown here Tuesday.

The Pawnee county fair, which opened Tuesday afternoon minus a carnival company, had nearly 1,000 persons in attendance within the first hour. The fair was first scheduled to open late in August but was cancelled when a carnival group failed to appear, presumably because of the state's restriction on gambling.

Mostly Local
The usual carnival rides were obtained from independent owners around the state, and local groups operated concessions.

Most of the entertainment in the two-day fair will come from local sources. The Pawnee county saddle club, with more than 70 red-shirted riders opened the fair with formation riding before the grandstand. A home-talent amateur night was held Tuesday night.

Local horsemen even volunteered to compete in a rodeo scheduled for Wednesday night on the fairgrounds arena.

Even though it is weeks too late for a chance at state fair honors, 4-H clubs, FFA boys and vocational homemaking girls in the county filled the fair buildings with dozens of exhibits and prize livestock.

George Mechling Of Lincoln Is Named A Vice President

FREMONT—(AP)—M. G. Jones of Beatrice, Tuesday night, was elected president of the Associated Industries of Nebraska.

Other officers include Lloyd H. Mattson of Omaha, Harlan G. Coy of Fremont, George W. Mechling of Lincoln, and Robert E. Lund of Columbus, vice presidents, and Le Roy Abbott of Alliance, treasurer.

Named directors for two-year terms were R. S. Dickinson of Omaha, S. P. Dicus of Fremont, John R. Jirson of Morrill, Guy H. Williams of Omaha, Fred P. Curtis of Omaha, and A. P. Hurwitz of Omaha.

In a resolution, the group pledged "to our government the greatest possible production capacity of Nebraska industry."

Another resolution proposed that "all waste of manpower be eliminated," that "our tax dollars be spent wisely," and that "economy be practiced everywhere."

NAM Chief Hits Profit's Enemies In Fremont Talk

FREMONT —(INS)—William H. Ruffin, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, claims Tuesday night that "the mainspring of our economy—the incentive to produce—is being tinkered with, tampered with, politically clipped and smeared."

And he said that if this "mainspring" is "melted down, any hope for a free and peaceful world would be destroyed."

Ruffin spoke before the 39th annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Nebraska in the Fremont civic auditorium.

The owner of a Durham, North Carolina, textile mill, declared: "It is fantastic to suppose that controls and confiscation could ever produce the strength that free men need to survive. The English experience has proved that."

Ruffin asserted that "free enterprise" and the "profit system" must be justified by the nation's businessmen "in the eyes of the folks who work for us . . . if this mad assault on individual enterprise would be stopped dead in its tracks."

Dick Contino Loses Plea For Sentence Reduction

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)—Dick Contino, highly paid accordion player, Tuesday lost a plea for reduction of his sentence on draft evasion charges.

Federal District Judge Michael J. Roche ruled against the night club and radio entertainer despite arguments by his attorney, James T. Davis, who sought to have a $10,000 fine cut.

Davis claimed that Contino, now serving a six-month sentence at McNeil island prison farm in Washington State, has only $7,000 in cash left from his last year's income.

Contino will be eligible for parole next Sunday.

State Teacher Retirement Plans Studied

State Senator Glenn Cramer of Albion said Tuesday, "I think it is quite generally agreed that the present retirement system (for teachers) which operates on a pay as you go basis is destined eventually to become a serious burden on the state."

Cramer, chairman of the legislative council's committee on education, told The Star the committee is attempting to determine the cost to the committee to have three teacher retirement plans prepared and submitted for consideration.

In clarifying committee action, taken last Friday, he said Dr. R. V. Shumate, director of research for the legislative council will "ascertain what the services of an actuary would cost to draw up the bills or amendments necessary to make the change from the present system to anyone of the three systems under consideration."

The three proposals are:

1. To hire an actuary to revise the present system and put it on a funding basis.
2. To replace the retirement plan with the social security program.
3. To use state or school district funds in matching teachers' periodic retirement payments.

In connection with the second proposal, Cramer said, "The committee plans to check the reaction in South Dakota where the last legislature placed the teachers under social security."

Regarding the third proposal, he added, "Such a new system would have to be drawn up in such a way that members of the present system would not stand to lose as a result of the change. This," he said, "would require the services of an actuary."

Literature Aids In Conversion, Adventists Told

Delegates to the annual meeting of the publishing committee of the central union conference of Seven Day Adventists were told Tuesday night Christian literature plays an important part in winning souls to the Lord.

Pastor M. V. Campbell, Lincoln, president of the central union conference in a five-state region including Nebraska, explained to delegates at the Lincoln hotel that a recent questionnaire sent by him to all area Adventist converts showed that Christian literature, ministers, laymen and family influence were leading factors in conversions.

Purpose of the three-day conference is the discussion of periodicals and publications and the application of them toward doubling membership.

Opening address Tuesday morning was given by G. A. Huse, Washington, D. C., the conference publishing department secretary.

Pastor C. G. Cross of Lincoln is presiding at the meeting. Thirty-five delegates are attending.

'TV' Burglar's Sentence Delayed

Sentence was deferred pending probation investigation Tuesday on Robert L. Belcher, 30, 3033 South Twelfth, who pleaded guilty in District court to a charge of burglary.

The specific complaint against Belcher was for entering the residence of Vernon Swanson, 3015 South Twelfth, and taking a $10 toaster, and $850 accordion and a $60 table model TV set.

County Attorney Frederick H. Wagener said Belcher admitted entering four different places and taking a total of $1,542 in furnishings—including three television sets.

Belcher told Judge Harry Ankeny that in 1939 he had been brought before a juvenile court, but no charge was pressed. A veteran of World War II, Belcher said he had been in no other trouble.

Wagener said the arrest of Belcher definitely cleared up entrances of four places. Besides the Swanson residence, they were the national guard armory, national guard headquarters and the residence of H. A. Johnson, 121-A, Huskerville.

Robert Harp, 54, Dies

Robert Harp, 229 North Twelfth street, died Tuesday night at a local hospital. He was 54.

Surviving is his step-father, H. C. Lauritzen, Salinas, Calif.

Meeting Up With Old Friends

By J. E. LAWRENCE.

SAN FRANCISCO — The annual dinner of the managing editors of Associated Press newspapers in this gay, pleasure-loving city provided an added bit of enjoyment for me.

Seven years ago I had lunch with Scott Newhall, the Sunday editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, at the historic old Palace hotel. In its day the Palace has furnished hospitality for presidents, industrial tycoons and many of the nation's financial wizards. It was at the Palace where the death of the late President Warren G. Harding occurred.

We had taken a place at a table which seemed to offer advantages for easy escape in the event things became dull, when I strolled Mr. Newhall, his wife, two members of Chronicle staff and their wives. I had forgotten the luncheon but he reminded me of it. He had formed a friendship with Dr. O. V. Calhoun while the latter was in the medical corps of the navy, stationed in San Francisco, and it was Dr. Calhoun who brought us together. Earlier I had visited with Royce Brier, the distinguished columnist who makes the news bloom with new freshness day after day. Brier is still at it and going strong.

I asked Mr. Newhall about the strange experience of one of America's most fascinating cities, so much to offer, and yet overshadowed and out-stripped many city miles by its rival giant to the south, Los Angeles. Despite fire and earthquake, and that churning which has become familiar to all Americans as the result of migration of great numbers of people, San Francisco remains much the same, unchanging, with a quality of the eternal about it. Its greatest loss, Mr. Newhall explained to me, has been due to the chaotic conditions of shipping in the Far East. San Francisco knows, if much of the rest of the country does not, that hundreds of millions of Asiatics are on the march, whither they know not, should they even care. As a port this city has no rival in natural advantages on the west coast. The decline of trade in the Orient has hit San Francisco squarely where it lives.

The parks are ever beautiful, the night life takes a back seat to no American community, and the cultural opportunities are ever so appealing. But the hopes that the end of a global war would bring about a revival of shipping, increased over that which was enjoyed prior to Pearl Harbor, have not been realized.

Peace in the Orient means more to San Francisco in an economic sense than perhaps any other American community.

Karl Stefan

It was not a surprise to me when upon opening a telegram from the office Tuesday afternoon I learned of the sad death of Representative Karl Stefan of the Third Nebraska district.

I had paid a courtesy call upon Mr. Stefan in Washington last April. At the time I was impressed with the strain under which he seemed to be laboring. He talked about the struggle in Korea, and on a broad scale the conflict throughout the world. He said to me, with a great deal of feeling:

"I gladly would give up my life if I could put an end to this thing."

There were only two of us in the room. He was not making a speech. He was talking to a friend with whom he differed politically, but to whom on that particular afternoon he revealed fully the emotion of Washington's tides. His committee assignments (Mr. Stefan was a member of the foreign affairs group in the house) had brought him very close to developments. He found himself frequently in conflict with an element within his own party because it became necessary for him to defend the state department.

Throughout his congressional career, he was the dean of the present Nebraska delegation. Mr. Stefan revealed a very considerable independence in his vote and in what he had to say.

It was the radio that in the beginning made Karl Stefan a familiar voice to the voters of the Third Nebraska district. He was not content to stand still. He was an energetic worker, and he grew in stature until he came to occupy a position of influence in the house. He was, in my judgment, the ablest member of the Nebraska delegation.

This is to express deep regret, a feeling which, I am sure, is shared by thousands of Nebraskans.

On Stepping Stones

Word reached the editor, via a note, that Mayor Victor Anderson had completed the necessary steps leading to a full-fledged candidacy for the republican nomination as governor.

It is a logical part of the political career of a public-spirited, able man. Mayor Anderson began modestly in a legislative role in the unicameral where he gave a good account of himself, yielded to friends in taking on the job of the city's "head man" at a time when the city hall was not too popular, and now indicates his willingness to direct the affairs of state. The least that could be said of him is that he is ruggedly honest, a successful business man, a kindly, engaging personality.

The distressing reflection provided by his announced ambition is that an active campaign will take him away from the city hall a great deal of the time, which means either he will resign from the post he now fills or conduct its affairs at long range, with little time for the city. Either is not pleasant to contemplate.

It is to be assumed that ambition to step up is the most natural of human forces. Yet the people of Lincoln last winter gave approval to a long range program of improvement which needs the most careful thought and attention. During this period the office of mayor should be something more than a stepping stone to something else.

The mayor, no doubt, has given careful thought to this. His colleagues will want to do so also.

A Guest Editorial

Stuart J. Bohacek... 'Isolationist Nebraska'

Editor's note: One of the most vigorous, capable editors and publishers of the weekly press in this state is Stu Bohacek of The Wilber Republican. He has contributed this guest editorial dealing with Nebraska undercurrents in characteristically clean-cut expression of a liberal viewpoint.

"Isolationist Nebraska," scoffed President Truman. "Totalitarian Nebraska," rumbled Colonel McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune. Both terms obviously were used disparagingly, and both, not quite so obviously, wrongly.

While Nebraskans can afford not to trouble over the name-calling, there is something challenging in the coincidence of the characterizations. Strangely enough, a close reading reveals an agreement between the president and the Chicago publisher that is indeed remarkable.

Nebraska was "totalitarian," said the colonel, but it has rallied to a "strong Americanism," and in his idiom, this means among other things "isolationism." There is agreement here, then, and it raises the question of just how near the truth this common view of our state lies.

Just how "isolationist" are we? How near to expressing the understanding and will of the people of Nebraska do its voices in congress come? Do we really believe that the Korean war is useless? That in all of our diplomatic dealings with friendly and unfriendly nations alike, we are sure to come off second-best, and ought, therefore, to retire behind a Maginot line of potential military might? That, however piously we hoped for the success of the United Nations, we must now write it off as another noble but unsuccessful experiment? And that economic aid to bolster the defenses against the hordes of communism in the nations on the fringe of the iron curtain represented just so many billions of dollars pounded down a rat-hole?

It would be an exceedingly wise Nebraskan who could answer these questions positively. If our guess is "No," it is based upon these beliefs and hopes:

America has been cast in a new role. She finds herself in a position of world leadership that is strange and therefore uncomfortable, but she cannot abdicate, because abdication means defeat. Since she cannot abandon the role, she must develop in it, and as she does, knowledge and confidence will come. With their coming, the uneasiness of her people should diminish, and the Nebraska mood will just as certainly reflect an appreciation of the consequences of America's responsibility as it now reflects misgivings.

As this process goes forward, a new leadership in our state will also come forward and be recognized—a leadership that understands that solutions must be found for a welter of new problems; a leadership that does not cherish desperately the old customs of thought just because they are old; a leadership that grasps the fact that America's new-found eminence among the family of nations entails new responsibilities, ungenial as they may at first appear to be.

And when Nebraska speaks, through her leaders, with this new voice, we may expect again to have the charges of "totalitarian" leveled at us by the McCormicks and the others who loathe or abhor the independence and liberalism with which Nebraska's leaders once spoke.

Right at this moment, we suspect, there are Nebraskans enough who are ready to say: "Please, may we have a little more of that 'totalitarianism'?"

Boyle's Boiling Coffee

A short time ago Hal Boyle turned out a piece about America's pressing need for a really good cup of coffee, suggesting at the time a "classic formula" for coffee: "Hot as Hades, black as midnight, and strong as a good woman's love."

Now the Associated Press reports that a man in Manila has offered his recipe, which he labeled "Antoine's 100-year-old New Orleans prescription" for coffee: "Black as the deepest shades of night, hot as the hinges of hell, and bitter as the ashes of a dead love."

All this simply adds to the remorse resulting from a stop at a local restaurant on the way down to the office. There was nothing to be done about that coffee. If Boyle wants the recipe, he'll have to dig for it himself. For our part, it was dark as a Briton's cup of tea, lukewarm as a boss being asked for a raise, and metallic as the dime it cost. Pass the cream and sugar, please.

Washington Merry-Go-Round— Officials Try To 'Get' Man Who Led Probe

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Most amazing inside fact about the recent cleanup of the San Francisco internal revenue office is that certain U. S. officials tried to indict the young man who first pushed this cleanup.

He is Charles O'Gara, assistant U. S. attorney in San Francisco, who for more than a year had tried to investigate and, if guilty, prosecute some of the income tax officials now suspended.

During all this period, it was no secret to high officials that income tax wire-pulling was suspected in northern California. And not only did these officials turn a deaf ear about a house cleaning but they attempted to indict the man who tried to clean house.

The story is almost unbelievable and somewhat complicated. It goes back to August, 1950, when U. S. Judge J. Waties Waring of South Carolina, sitting temporarily in California, smelled something wrong regarding a narcotics case and suggested to young O'Gara that he investigate.

From that time—Aug. 5, 1950, until April 3, 1951—O'Gara tried to get grand jury hearing of suspected internal revenue irregularities. All his efforts were blocked from above.

Meanwhile certain things going on inside the San Francisco internal revenue office obviously merited investigation, merely on the face of them. Here are some instances:

1—An internal revenue employees' fund was collected from brewers, liquor dealers, bookies, prostitutes and delinquent taxpayers. One of the men involved in collecting this fund was John A. Malone, brother of William Malone, chairman of the democratic central committee for San Francisco and most potent democratic wheel-horse in northern California.

2—John Malone, brother of the democratic bigwig, operated an accounting and income tax office of his own, though he was assistant chief of the income tax division. Malone has now been suspended.

3—Paul V. Doyle, chief office deputy of the San Francisco internal revenue office, also operated an accounting firm and gave income tax advice on the side. He too has now been suspended.

4—John Boland, chief field deputy, maintained a deputy collector, Jack Crowley, as his chauffeur, was a close pal of chief collector Smythe, Doyle and Malone. Last week he was suspended.

5—Jenatus Beresford, chief assistant in the wage and excise division, also operated an income tax service in off hours. He has now been suspended.

6—Collector of Internal Revenue James Smythe, now suspended for "incompetence," had admitted under cross-examination before the Kefauver committee that he had been a delinquent taxpayer prior to his appointment to the job of collecting taxes in 1945.

However, Smythe had been the campaign manager for democratic Sen. Sheridan Downey and deserved reward. Furthermore, Mrs. Smythe was one of Downey's secretaries.

The above facts were well known to U. S. treasury officials in Washington, yet O'Gara was not able, for approximately one year, to proceed with any investigation.

Washington Calling Boyle And Gabrielson Facing Similar Fates

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The fortunes of the democratic and the republican national chairmen are curiously twined in the senate investigation into the influence industry in Washington. If William M. Boyle, jr. succeeds in establishing at least his technical purity, then Guy Gabrielson may continue to hold his job with the republicans.

Last week no less a figure than Mr. Republican himself, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, is reported to have told two visiting committeemen that Gabrielson would have to go. Taft is said to have indicated that he would be willing to accept Sinclair Weeks of Boston as a compromise to succeed Gabrielson.

Weeks would be acceptable to those who are backing General Eisenhower for the 1952 presidential nomination. The Eisenhower backers have long been suspicious of Gabrielson whom they label a "Taft man." They point out that on the day of Gabrielson's selection for the chairmanship in 1949 the fact of his connection with the reconstruction finance corporation through the $18,000,000 loan to the Carthage Hydrocoel company was brought out. At that time there were those who feared this would ultimately rise up to haunt not only the chairman but the party.

In his appearance before the Hoey committee Boyle was skillful. He denied under oath that he had received the $8,000 from the American Lithofold corporation, as had been charged by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. This denial seemed to take away much of the sting of the accusations brought against the democratic chairman.

The Boyle appearance was part of a triple play worthy of a political world series. With it went the denunciation of the press by Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas and President Truman's message calling for legislation requiring top officials, including members of congress, to make public all sources of income. The Truman recommendation, which has no

Finally, a forthright grand jury, headed by Richard Seward, first of all indicted James M. MacInnes, an attorney in the narcotics case presided over by Judge Waring; and then called in Robert McMillan, chief assistant U. S. attorney, put him under subpoena and asked him, among other things, why the facts unearthed by the Kefauver committee regarding internal revenue had not been followed up. Charles Davis, head of internal revenue's local intelligence unit, was also examined. Neither could give a satisfactory answer.

Consequently, the Seward grand jury directed O'Gara to continue this probe before another federal grand jury headed by John Taylor. On May 16, O'Gara attempted to do so.

But suddenly U. S. Judge Lewis F. Goodman called the grand jury before him, instructed it that it had no power to proceed.

Local political observers believe it may or may not be significant that Judge Goodman was appointed on the recommendation of Senator Downey, close friend of collector James Smythe, whose office was being probed.

Following this, Chief Assistant U. S. Attorney McMillan took over a new grand jury probe of internal revenue matters, despite the fact that he had previously been called on the carpet by a runaway grand jury and quizzed regarding the government's failure to clean house.

Meanwhile young Mr. O'Gara, the idealistic assistant who had insisted on going into these tax matters, suddenly found himself under investigation. He was accused of intimidating a government witness.

He was so informed on June 4 by his boss, U. S. Attorney Chauncey Tramutolo. The FBI then called on O'Gara, informed him that on May 28 they had been ordered by top officials in the justice department in Washington to investigate him on a complaint by Louise Haller, a notary public, who testified in the MacInnes narcotics case.

A committee from the Seward grand jury which had indicted MacInnes immediately came to O'Gara's defense, said there was no question in their minds between O'Gara and Miss Haller as to who was telling the truth. Nevertheless, the case against O'Gara was presented to the grand jury, and on July 3, U. S. Judge Edward P. Murphy instructed the grand jury to conclude its deliberations within the next 48 hours.

On July 5, as the 48 hours were about to expire, the jury asked U. S. Attorney Tramutolo whether he wanted O'Gara indicted. His reply, in effect, was "it's up to you."

O'Gara was not indicted. The grand jury was all too familiar with his attempts to clean up the San Francisco internal revenue office—attempts now belatedly but fully justified.

NOTE—Most important thing to remember about the San Francisco cleanup and other tax irregularities around the country is that federal tax collectors and judges owe their appointment to individual senators or local bosses. Thus, some of them tend to do what is good for all the American people, but what is good for the men who appoint them.

Nebraskans: In The Workshop And At Home

By DICK SIMONSON

FIFTY-FOUR dozen dunkers a night. Six nights a week. But that's just a small part of Howard Weyand's job as a baker in one of Lincoln's downtown bake shops.

Weyand, 2788 F street, turns out 248 loaves of bread a night, 95 dozen sweet rolls, 53 dozen buns and hard rolls, in addition to the aforementioned doughnuts—all by himself.

Before he started, his job was done by three men.

The 49-year-old brother of the Lincoln high school basketball coach, Lyle Weyand, has been "in the dough" for the past 35 years, and in his words: "I like it better every day."

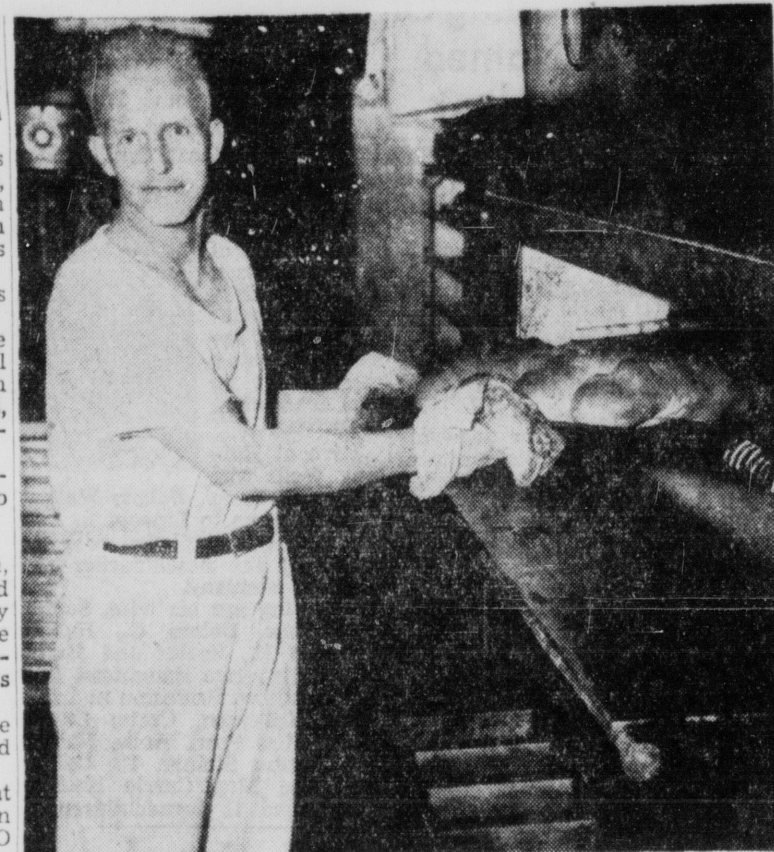

Another brother holds a superintendent's position in a Chicago baking concern.

THE "every day" angle, though, is a little misleading. Weyand goes to work at 6 p.m. Sunday through Friday, and by the time he's finished satisfying the demands of the pastry gourmets, it's usually about 6 a.m.

The day-bakers turn out the pies, cakes and cookies, Weyand said.

The start of his career was at the old Folsom bakery between Fourteenth and Fifteenth on O street, where he fried doughnuts. It was during World War I and he was only 15 at the time. One day, he recalled, the orders totaled 700 dozen, but he "turned 'em out in fine style."

THE white-haired Weyand is a study in perpetual motion. Answers for this interview were flung over his shoulder as he pulled the bread trays from the big rotary oven, which is a far cry from old-fashioned ovens. Cinnamon rolls, "flops," pecan rolls, bismarcks—all come from the oven with the light brown color and aroma that give a bakery its fragrant atmosphere. "People are eating more baked goods today than they used to,"

Weyand said, flipping a tray of doughnuts in his pool of grease. "And we're always trying to make something new."

The baking business is all right—especially when a reporter can mumble "thanks" around a mouthful of rich pecan roll after getting his story.

More Daylight

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Now that the days are getting shorter, I have been thinking how wonderful it would be to have more light in the evenings in the fall and winter. There are so many of us who dread the approaching early darkness. There are more robberies and accidents, and less time for children to get out-of-doors, in the late fall and winter than in the spring. It would be a simple matter to set the clocks back so that we could have more hours of light in the evening. This should be a statewide measure and I think the state legislature ought to consider it.

Water Issue Facing York

YORK, Neb. (AP)—A special election will be held in York Nov. 27 to vote on whether the city should purchase the York Water company.

The water company's franchise expires next year.

The date for the special election was set by the city council at a special meeting.

W. L. Kirkpatrick, counsel for the water company, told the council, "We are not going to fix a price. We do not want to sell."

James Ellis of Ellis-Holyoke company, Lincoln, owners of stock in the York Water company, said none of the stockholders lives in York.

E. L. Malster, company manager, disposed of his stock in 1949 but remained as general manager.

The water company franchise was a hotly contested issue in elections in 1912 and 1932.

Richardson Corn Still Has 'Chance To Mature'

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—County Agent Tom Aitken said he believes that Richardson county corn which has about 50 per cent of its leaf structure still undamaged after last week's frost still has a chance to mature.

Freshmen Enrollment Goes Up At Hastings

HASTINGS, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special)—Enrollment of freshmen at Hastings college is larger than it was a year ago, according to Miss Eunice Chapman, registrar. The present freshman class includes 264 persons, 124 of whom are men and 140 women. There were 245 freshmen a year ago. The total enrollment of day students, not including students in evening classes or preparatory students in music, is 579, compared with 654 a year ago.

Only 10% Is Listed As Ruined

An estimated 70 per cent of Nebraska's corn crop escaped frost damage last week, the state-federal division of agricultural statistics reported.

Ten per cent of the crop that was in the milk stage was ruined, and the remainder, 20 per cent of the crop that was in the various dough stages was damaged but in varying degrees, the bureau said.

These estimates were based on extensive field observations. "Seventy-four per cent of the corn had tasseled by August 11, which gave that portion of the crop 47 days to mature before the frost which occurred September 28," the report said. "Generally, it takes about 50 days for corn to mature after tasseling. However, progress seemed to be a little slower this year because of so much cool, wet weather, lack of sunshine and wind.

"Stands of corn are considerably below the average. Many fields are weedy and there was a lack of cultivation because of the wet soil condition. Insects did some damage in addition to the injury from hail and wind storms."

By the end of last week about 94 per cent of the winter wheat crop had been seeded as compared with 74 per cent a week earlier and 90 per cent a year ago, the bureau disclosed. Much of the crop is up and it appears to be coming nicely, the crop experts said.

"The sorghum crop was badly damaged by the frost and only a very small per cent of the crop was approaching maturity," the bureau said. "Generally, most soybeans had matured before the frost."

"In the North Platte valley late beans were damaged badly by the frost, as well as hail and rust. The early planted beans are good. There appears to be considerable damage from blight of potatoes, but so far it appears worse in the dryland areas and in the Mirage Flats. The yields will not come up to earlier expectations in the North Platte valley, but the damage from blight may not be as great as some reports have indicated."

Czech Imports To America Slashed 90%

Trading With Red Nation To Virtually End

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The government Tuesday virtually suspended trade between the United States and communist Czechoslovakia.

The treasury and state departments invoked technicalities which experts predicted would block about 90 per cent of Czech imports to this country.

This was the latest in a series of steps whittling down commercial relations between the two countries as political differences increased.

Exports controls already have cut American exports to Czechoslovakia below 20 per cent of normal—less than $100,000 monthly.

Move Costs Czechs
Tuesday's move will cost the Prague government about $2,160,000 a month of the dollars it has been trying to earn through foreign trade.

The state department announced it would suspend the granting of required invoices for Czech imports. The treasury said it would tighten its vigilance to prevent the entry of Czech goods without the invoices.

In announcing this move, neither department mentioned the case of William N. Oatis, imprisoned Associated Press correspondent.

But his conviction on what the state department has called trumped up espionage charges has climaxed steadily deteriorating Washington-Prague relations.

Christian Education Week Is Proclaimed

Mayor Victor E. Anderson has proclaimed the week of Sept. 30 through Oct. 7 as Christian Education week.

In the proclamation the mayor requested "that our people take seriously to heart their obligations to the churches and other religious institutions of their choice, remembering that only as religious faith is taught with understanding, skill and zeal will our people remain forever free."

"The well being of our city can rise no higher than the character of our citizens. Those character traits so greatly needed in our community life are those which have been nurtured by religious devotion."

man ordered the cancellation on Nov. 1, of all trade concessions granted to Czechoslovakia. This followed a congressional directive to eliminate special tariff rates and other privileges for all communist areas.

This has been done for Bulgaria, Romania and 13 other red-controlled states. Notice of impending cancellation has gone to Russia, Poland and Hungary.

Main Czech imports to the U.S. are hops, fur felt hat bodies, jewelry, glass illumination articles, bleached jutes and burlap.

Penalties would be levied against the importer. An American seeking to buy most Czech goods, despite the tightened policy, would have to pay about double. If he buys items not covered by invoices, he will have to pay more anyway after Nov. 1.

Progress Made On Housing, Anderson Says

Lincoln's housing problem "is not good but we are moving forward," Mayor Victor E. Anderson told members of the Rotary club Tuesday at the Cornhusker hotel.

Speaking on the problems of city government, Anderson stated that Lincoln builders took out permits for 1,233 new homes last year and would probably go over 1,300 this year. That, he said, shows that the city is progressing.

The mayor reaffirmed his stand that the city will be able to meet any housing needs presented with the anticipated reactivation of the air base. If Huskerville is taken over by the military, he said, then the Housing Authority will receive enough funds to construct around 300 rental units.

Discussing the liquor control problem, Anderson stated that "Lincoln is considered one of the best controlled cities in the nation." He chalked that rating up to the success of the "get tough" policy on liquor control adopted by the city council last year.

Since the inauguration of that policy, said Anderson, there has been only one proven violation of the law by a liquor dealer. That is proof, he said, of good operation.

As to the structure of the capitol city's government the mayor compared it to the city manager form. As he points out, the only difference is that Lincoln has three managers called directors instead of one.

Carrier Boys To Be Guests Of Governor

Gov. Val Peterson will be host here Saturday to the outstanding newspaper carrier boys of Nebraska daily newspapers.

The boys will be selected by each of the papers.

They will come to Lincoln and will be entertained by the governor at lunch at the executive mansion.

The luncheon is a feature of Nebraska's participation in National Newspaper Week.

Anderson May Attend National Defense Meet At His Own Expense

Mayor Victor E. Anderson said Tuesday he may accept an invitation to a national defense meeting in Washington Nov. 12 and would travel at his own expense.

The mayor has been invited to attend the meeting called by the secretary of defense. The meeting will include a discussion with top military officials and a tour of military bases there for a field operations and weapons demonstration.

"I don't mind paying my own way to such meetings," said Anderson, "but I hate to set a precedent like that. Other mayors may follow me who cannot afford such activities on the $20 a week they are paid."

The city council has been unable to reach an agreement on the problem of travel pay for city officials. All such expenses were cut from the city's budget this year but it was not a unanimous decision.

Last Monday the council appointed a committee of three to study travel requests and make recommendations of approval or denial to the council. In cases where the trip is allowed the money would come from the city's $15,000 contingency fund.

UNACCUSTOMED

As I Am --

BY JOYCE FINE

At sunrise on Friday, October 26, the pheasant season opens in Nebraska. At that time, all the city boys will rush out and create havoc in pursuing the lordly bird, all the country boys will cuss the city boys for spoiling their shooting, and all the pheasants will hide in patches of cockleburrs and laugh like mad. Talk about sport!

Be that as it may—it's when the pheasant enters the kitchen that the fun really begins. Here's my most successful recipe for cooking pheasant—if you can't think of a better name, you can call it pheasant a la city boy.

After the hunter has cleaned and cut up his kill (a good habit to encourage in hunters), the cook should scurry about the pantry collecting one-quarter cup of flour, two teaspoons of salt, a quarter-teaspoon of pepper, a quarter of a cup of butter, a pint of cream, three or four tablespoons of claret, and other half-teaspoon of salt, and a pinch of rosemary, marjoram and tarragon.

If this sounds rather expensive, bear in mind that you've already spent from fifty to two hundred dollars just catching your pheasant—unless, of course, someone gave it to you, in which case you can well afford the ingredients.

Melt the butter in a heavy skillet or Dutch oven with a tight lid. Coat the pheasant with the combined flour, salt and pepper (by shaking it in a paper bag, natch), and brown the pieces on all sides, quite slowly to avoid drying. When it's acquired a lovely tan, pour the cream over it, add the herbs and salt, and then the claret. The cream will curdle, but that's just what it's supposed to do. Cover it and bake in a 325 degree oven for about an hour and a half, meanwhile whetting your appetite.

These proportions will do for a dressed pheasant weighing about a pound—and probably will serve only two. Oh, and about hanging, as they still call it—I think it's a good idea to store game of any kind (cleaned, of course) in the refrigerator for at least a day before it's cooked. This gives it time to get used to civilization or something—I dunno—anyway, it's a fine old tradition.

When the bird is superlatively tender, serve it in its own gravy—on a large platter, maybe, with wild rice in the center, accompanied by a green salad with a bland dressing. And if you feel energetic, you can serve cherries jubilee for dessert—takes elegant fixin's to live up to a pheasant.

We Hear That —

Sudden Death Ends Long Public Service Of Rep. Karl Stefan

Circulatory Failure Is Said Cause

Norfolk Man Was State's Leading GOP Vote Getter

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Rep. Karl Stefan of Norfolk, dean of Nebraska's all-republican congressional delegation, died Tuesday at the age of 67.

Death came to Stefan at the height of a vivid career that brought him to international prominence.

As congressman he was ranking majority member of the appropriations subcommittee on state, justice and commerce departments and the judiciary.

Only recently he had attended the Japanese peace treaty conference in San Francisco as official congressional observer. He had served in a similar capacity at the United Nations conference in 1945.

In 1935 he was a congressional delegate to the inauguration of President Manuel Quezon in the Philippines and in 1939 he attended the inter-parliamentary union meeting in Oslo.

He held the Philippine medal of military merit and the Elroy Allard medal for furthering inter-American relations.

As a candidate Stefan was Nebraska's leading republican vote getter over a period of years. He ran against the democratic landslide in 1934 to unseat the late Edgar Howard, in the third district polling 58 per cent of the vote. It was his lowest percentage in nine elections he faced the electorate. Six years later, in 1940, he amassed his heaviest total—80 per cent of the votes.

Stefan entered a hospital Sunday complaining that he felt run down after a long siege of virus influenza. He said he had been having backaches and intestinal disturbances.

Monday he suffered "an acute cardiovascular collapse," which is a failure of the circulatory system. Death came about noon Tuesday.

Stefan was born on a farm near the towns of Muellenhausen and Zebakov in Bohemia, later part of Czechoslovakia, March 1, 1884.

His parents brought him to the United States when he was two years old, settling in Omaha.

The young Stefan quit school in the seventh grade in 1897 because of hard times, but later made up some of his deficiencies in night school.

Longtime Newscaster
He worked in a packing house, in the publicity department of the Trans-Mississippi exposition, as a telegraph messenger, telegrapher, interpreter, newspaper reporter, editor, proprietor, of a cigar store and finally as chief announcer and newscaster for the Norfolk Daily News radio station WJAG in 1922.

In 1934, his radio listeners urged him to run for congress, and he received more than 72,000 votes as a republican candidate in the democratic landslide year. He was the only republican elected to congress that year from Nebraska, and was the first radio man ever elected to congress.

His keen interest in down-trodden countries in the world brought him international friends. On the domestic scene he was long a friend of civil aviation.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Dr. Karl Stefan, Washouga, Wash.; one daughter, Mrs. Robert Askren, Chicago; a brother Dr. William Stefan, Omaha, and two grandchildren.

His colleagues will be notified formally Wednesday when members will have an opportunity to pay tribute to him. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) then will appoint a group of house members to represent the house at final services.

Another Nebraska legislator—Senator Kenneth Wherry, the minority floor leader—was in a room across from Stefan's at the hospital. Wherry, just recovering from some respiratory trouble, will undergo what was described as a corrective operation later this week.

Rep. Curtis (R-Neb.) said in a statement:

"Karl Stefan was one of the most valuable men in the U.S. congress. His knowledge of the workings of the federal government was great. The loss to the congress and to the country is a great one. He will leave a place which cannot be filled. From the personal standpoint, I have lost a very dear friend and a faithful and hard working colleague."

Senator Butler described Stefan as "one of the most able members of congress and respected by leaders of both parties. Long an influential leader himself, he was most faithful in the discharge of his responsibilities and a tireless worker."

Ben Miller said he was "one of the great Americans in congress whose death leaves a void in the national and international picture for he had an international mind which understood international problems."

Said Rep. Buffett: "As a junior member of the Nebraska delegation, I'll miss his guidance and his counsel very much. He's been an inspiration to many of us."

Friends Pay High Tribute To Stefan

Rep. Karl Stefan's unexpected death in Washington Tuesday brought the following comments from his political associates in Nebraska:

Through his office here, Gov. Val Peterson said he was "greatly saddened" by the death of Rep. Stefan. One of the governor's earliest ventures into politics was to work in Stefan's first campaign in 1934.

Dave Martin of Kearney, state republican chairman, said "the death of Karl Stefan is an irreparable loss not only to the people of Nebraska, but to the entire nation. Rep. Stefan was a man who placed the welfare of his country ahead of anything else. His integrity was beyond question, and the esteem in which he was held by not only his colleagues but also those of the opposition party has proved the greatness of him."

Stefan's death was a "shock to all Nebraskans," declared William Meier of Minden, state chairman of the democratic party.

"It has been my impression," said Lincoln's Mayor Victor E. Anderson on the death of Rep. Stefan, "that Karl had his feet entirely on the ground. He probably knew the problems of the state as well as any man in Washington."

"I had the privilege of visiting with him in Washington recently and he showed his fine spirit of co-operation by offering his assistance in connection with the reactivation of Lincoln's air base, even though he was not from this district. He took an active interest in the capital city."

"Above all, Karl always had the people's interest at heart."

In a message to Mrs. Stefan, Lt. Gov. Charles Warner, acting governor at the time of Rep. Stefan's death, said, "I speak for all the people of Nebraska in voicing our deepest grief over the loss of your beloved husband. We of Nebraska and the nation at large have indeed lost one of our greatest statesmen. His outstanding ability, his scholarship, his non-acquaintance with Karl was esty, his integrity and his fear-most intimate, and a result of lessness in both public and private several long campaigns we went life will never be forgotten. My through together."

New $35,000 Julian Catholic Church Officially Dedicated

BY JOHN SWANSON (Star Staff Writer)

JULIAN, Neb.—The remarkable conclusion of a three-year building program was hailed here Tuesday when the 20-family parish of St. Bernard's Catholic church dedicated a new $35,000 building.

The new brick church, which replaces a 70-year old frame structure, features a simplified architecture inside and out. A full-length basement will be used for meetings of parishioners.

In observance of the church's opening, Bishop Louis B. Kucera of the Lincoln diocese celebrated a Pontifical High Mass at the church.

Bishop Kucera declared that the world today is "engaged in a struggle to decide whether the sovereignty of God will continue, or if it will be exchanged for the

Gov. Byrnes Says Any Dixie Revolt In '52 Will Depend On Who Demos Name

GATLINBURG, Tenn.—(AP)—Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina said Tuesday any southern revolt in the presidential election next year will depend on who is nominated by the democrats in their national convention next July.

He said flatly he will oppose President Truman if he seeks another term. He called on democrats to nominate either Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia or Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Byrnes gave his views to a news conference during a break in the 43rd annual governors' conference here in which political talk has overshadowed discussions of state problems.

They were particularly significant because Byrnes has been mentioned as the possible leader of an independent southern movement in case Truman again wins the democratic nomination.

Byrnes is reported to be quietly sounding out sentiment among other southern governors as to the possibility of united southern action next year.

His conference came after the nation's governors had a stormy session with Federal Security administrator Oscar Ewing in which both republicans and democrats displayed angry impatience with some of the federal controls in the public welfare field.

Bill Still Pending.
With Byrnes taking a leading role, the governors voted unanimous approval of a move to give states the power and authority to publish lists of relief rolls withdrawn.

Federal law now imposes secrecy on their relief lists. The senate has voted to lift the ban but the measure still is pending in the house.

The action was taken under the leadership of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York who put the question in the form of a motion because a resolution can be blocked by one objecting vote.

Temper Flare.

The governors also voted 25 to 10 in favor of giving states the exclusive right to control their civil service standards in the federally-aided public welfare program.

As tempers flared at times, Gov. J. Bracken Lee, Utah re-

The city council upheld recommendations by the zoning board or appeals in eight of nine applications referred to it.

Motion In Mid-Continent Case Hearing Thursday

A hearing on a motion to dismiss the injunction suit of Mid-Continent Airlines against the state board of equalization and assessment will be held Thursday, 10 a.m., at the Omaha post office building.

The motion to dismiss was filed Sept. 6 on grounds that Mid-Continent had not tried all remedies available to them through state courts.

Mid-Continent filed a suit to enjoin the state from collecting $4,280.44 in taxes levied against aircraft descending to land, unload and take on passengers, and then ascending once more. Mid-Continent alleged the taxes were illegal.

Chicago Police Break Juvenile Pickpocket Ring

CHICAGO — (INS) — Chicago police said Tuesday, six girls and a boy ranging from 9 to 15 years old have admitted operating a pickpocket gang for nine months, stealing $2,000 within the last two weeks.

The girls, 9 to 13, and the 15-year-old boy told police they started "work" after school and continued until 10 p.m.

Policewoman Mary Lamson, who rounded up the group, described them as "amazing." She said the juveniles were as "expert as any pickpocket I've ever seen."

Teheran Has A Day Of Triumph

By FRED ZUSY

ABADAN, Iran—(AP)—Downcast British oilmen made their last preparations Tuesday night to take their leave and surrender to the Iranians a vast oil empire built up through half a century.

The evacuation, beginning at 9 a.m. Wednesday is a black day for the British who are ending the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.'s lucrative development of one of the richest oil areas on the globe.

It is a triumph for those Iranians who had worked for this day since last March, when Iran nationalized the nation's tremendous oil resources. But it could prove a hollow triumph, and worse than defeat, if these Iranians are unable to operate their own industry.

The feelings of the British were expressed by refinery boss K. B. Ross, who has been here 18 years. "I'm leaving a life's work behind," he said. "There is a lot of Britain in this place."

He expressed the hope that eventually there would be some agreement "so we can come back." "I know if we come back it can't be on the same footing, but Iran and Britain can co-operate to run this place," he said.

Iranians can't quite believe that their dreams of kicking the British out are being realized. They credit President Truman with easing tension by his advice to the British not to use force.

Stood Ready To Resist

Iranian sources said there were about 12,000 troops around Aba-dan who would have resisted any British landing attempt.

Reports that the U.S. embassy was sending 10 observers here to watch the evacuation created a stir of suspicion among some British. A British newsman said the presence of so many observers to watch the humiliation of the British would be "impolitic."

The British, about 300 of a force which once totaled 3,000, are being escorted out by the Iranians. The Tehran government rejected a British request that the cruiser Mauritius be allowed to dock for the embarkation, or that the British be allowed to use their own boats as ferries to the warship.

Russia Makes Gesture

The Iranians are providing 16 launches to carry Britons to the Mauritius, anchored a few hundred yards out in the Shatt-el-Arab, the waterway that separates Iran from Iraq. A ship's band probably will play as they climb aboard.

Soviet Russia made courtship gestures in Teheran in a bid to replace the United States in the role of Iran's big friend.

Soviet Ambassador Ivan Sadchikov called on Mossadegh. A government spokesman said Sadchikov promised Mossadegh Russia would do her best to increase deliveries of sugar and other goods which Britain has stopped shipping to this country.

CAMERA PROVES ENDOCREME CAN CHECK AGEING SKIN* . . .

IT HAPPENED IN SIX WEEKS: These greatly magnified, unretouched photographs show the actual improvement on the skin area of the same woman after using Endocrine for a period of 6 weeks.

WONDERFUL NEWS FOR WOMEN WHOSE SKIN IS LOSING ITS YOUTHFUL LOOK

Does your mirror reveal fading skin loveliness in face and throat—lines and other telltale signs of passing years? If so, Endocrine, the first, successful hormone cream, is for you.

Ever since 1937 thousands of women have been happily using Endocrine daily . . . and safely, too. They have found that it vitally helps them gain firmer, fresher, smoother, younger-looking skin.

HERE'S HOW IT DOES IT

Only Endocrine contains Actinol which, absorbed by the skin, helps restore the normal growth of ageing skin cells and tissue. A full month's supply costs only $3.50 plus tax.

*Scientific, controlled tests conducted over a period of years and public use over a period of 14 years prove conclusively that 7 out of 10 women over 30 years of age obtained marked benefits from the use of Endocrine . . . some in as little as 30 days.

TYPICAL STATEMENTS OF ENDOCREME USERS*

"I am 44 years old and most people think I am around 34 or 35."

"I have used Endocrine for years, starting in 1941. I just can't get along without it."

South Platte Chambers Plan Biggest Gathering Here Oct. 13

The largest gathering in history of South Platte United Chambers of Commerce members is anticipated in Lincoln for their annual SPUCC visit on Saturday, Oct. 13. Co-chairmen John Spray and Sheldon Hallett of the chamber's wholesale committee said.

The visitors will arrive by special train and will be taken on special buses to their luncheon meeting with their Lincoln hosts. Immediately following the luncheon, the special buses will take the SPUCC visitors to the Cornhusker-Penn State football game as guests of the Lincoln chamber of commerce.

No Parade
"This is the second year that we have followed this plan," Spray and Hallett stated. "Our Sowers club and other wholesale members and Lincoln businessmen will meet our visitors at the train. There will be no parade this year as it is Band Day for the University."

The luncheon will be entirely different as there will be no main speaker for the occasion. All of Nebraska's congressmen have been invited and most of them will attend.

Fundamentals Husker Menu As Odds Favor N.U. Over K-State

Bums Lower Boom On Giants, 10-0, To Square Playoff Series

By NORRIS ANDERSON

IT WAS back to basic fundamentals again Tuesday in the University of Nebraska drill yard as Coach Bill Meek drilled the Huskers on the Kansas State game Saturday.

The Huskers will leave in a chartered bus Friday noon, working out in Junction City, Kans., that afternoon and staying there that night.

Early odds favor the Huskers by 14 points.

Glass - Ray Novak

Working out at the 10-point margin given his team before the Texas Christian debacle, disputes the Saturday odds.

"The game will be a tossup," says the maestro. "He wants to let it go at that."

Glassford spent extra time

Tuesday with his defensive secondary, a crowning weakness against the Horned Frogs.

His defensive secondary consisted of George Cifra and Bill Schabacher, linebackers; Emil Radik, Max Kennedy, Jim Levensky and Ken Moore alternating as defensive backs, and Bobby Decker and Jim Sommers, taking turns as safety men.

Linebacker Cliff Hopp will get the cast off his injured arm Wednesday and will probably be available for Kansas State, Glassford said.

GOTH BACK.

All varsity hands except All-America Bobby Reynolds will evidently be in shape for the Saturday game.

Tackle Harvey Goth, who has been out for three weeks with a bad knee, was back in pads and participated in the scrimmage Tuesday.

In the offensive portion of the drill, Sophomore Dick Westin was running full speed at a right halfback berth behind Tom Carodine.

A 185-pounder who was former state hurdle champion in his days at Omaha Benson, Westin is expected to bolster the running attack. He returned off the injured list Monday.

Don Vogt, sophomore from Wattertown, S. D., and Bob Smith, Grand Island frosh, continued to alternate at left halfback.

John Bordogna and Don Norris, both sophs, were alternating at quarterback and Senior Nick Adduci and Cophomore Ray Novak were getting the call at fullback.

SPIRIT HIGH

Squad spirit seemed high and the blocking was clicking better than it did Saturday against the Horned Frogs.

Some 1,700 Nebraskans, bolstered by the university student migration, will be in the stands for the game.

Jack Cohen, head of the migration committee, said that this year's trek will be the biggest migration ever staged from the university.

The last remaining tickets go on the block Wednesday at 7 a. m. The special train leaves Lincoln at 6:16 a. m. Saturday, arriving in Manhattan at 11:30 a. m.

Corn Cobs, Tassels and a pep band will be included among the students making the trek. Free pom-poms and rally signs will be furnished to the rooters, Cohen said.

START OF RHUBARB—Duke Snider, Dodgers' centerfielder is tagged out by Giants' Catcher Wes Westrum as he slides into home plate in third inning of Tuesday's National League playoff game. Ump is Larry Goetz. Play touched off rhubarb as Dodgers, led by Manager Chuck Dressen, protested vigorously. Snider was out trying to score on an error. (AP Wirephoto).

NEW YORK—(AP) — Brooklyn bombed the New York Giants, 10-0 Tuesday on Clem Labine's six-hit pitching to even their playoff series for the National league pennant before 38,609.

They will play the final game today at the Polo grounds.

In the decisive game today, Sal Maglie (23-6) of the Giants will oppose Don Newcombe (20-9).

Despite a 42-minute delay by rain in the sixth, the 25-year-old rookie from St. Paul checked the rampant Giants without a hit in the last 4 2/3 innings after Monte Irvin singled with one out in the fifth.

Home runs by Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges, Andy Pafko and Al (Rube) Walker set the pace for the 13-hit attack on Loser Sheldon Jones, George Spencer and Al Corvin.

JACKIE HOMERS

From the moment Jackie Robinson rammed a two-run homer in the lower left field stands in the first inning, the Dodgers never surrendered the lead.

Duke Snider's double and Robinson's single, his third straight hit, made it 3-0 in the fifth. During the rain-interrupted sixth, Gil Hodges' 40th homer, two Giant errors, a walk and two singles added three big runs.

Andy Pafko's homer off the first pitch by Al Corvin, third Giant pitcher, kept things going in the seventh. A walk and Willie Mays' error on Al Walker's single made it 9-0.

Walker's tremendous homer over the right field stands with Billy Cox on base ended the scoring in the ninth.

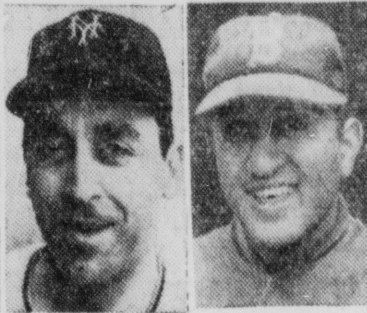

LABINE HERO

Meanwhile, calm Mr. Labine, recalled from St. Paul July 23, was pitching the game of his young career. Rescuing the Dodgers on the brink of elimination by blowing a 13 1/2 game lead, he showed them up even with the Giants.

Giants' supporters saw a ray of hope for their heroes when, with the Dodgers already five runs to the good, a drizzling rain brought out the infield canvas and interrupted the game for 41 minutes. There was just a chance, they reasoned, that the blazing kid would cool off somewhat during the long wait.

But all the enforced idleness did to Labine was make him anxious to get it over. In the final four frames, after play was resumed, exactly two Giants reached first base—both on walks. Neither got any further as the rookie smoked them across. Only two of the last 14 Giants got the ball out of the infield.

In the third, with Dodgers leading only 2-0 on the strength of Robinson's two-run homer in the opening chapter, the home club loaded the bases with two away batters. Duke Snider was swinging at the ball again and Gil Hodges seems to have pulled out of his long slump. Their failure to hit has been hurting us.

DO OR DIE—Sal Maglie (left), New York Giants' 23-game winner, will oppose the Brooklyn Dodgers' 20-game-winning Don Newcombe in the deciding game of the playoffs for the National league pennant and the right to meet the New York Yankees in the World Series.

hard at Billy Cox at third to close it out. Not another Giant was to reach second base. Though back on their home lot where they floundered to get the shakes as they bumbled their way through five errors three of them by their pitchers. The resulting Brooklyn thum was not, of course, appreciably affect the final result.

Wildcats Get Timing Work

MANHATTAN, Kas.—(Lincoln Star Special)—It was a tired group of Kansas State gridlers that trudged off the practice field here Tuesday night.

Coach Bill Meek sent his squad through a long workout that lasted until 6 p. m.

Meek sent a pair of offensive units through a long play-timing session and then topped it off with a half-hour scrimmage in which passing predominated.

Tailbacks Lane Brown and Dick Shockey were hitting their targets with regularity in the scrimmage, which probably will be the last held before the Big Seven opener here Saturday with Nebraska.

NEW CASUALTIES

New casualties have arisen to plague the 'Cat cause. Latest to be sidelined were Meek's No. one linebacker and No. two blocking back, Augie Keller, who suffered a bad side bruise, and Defensive Tackle John Walters, who may be out a month with a broken foot bone.

Working in sweat clothes Tuesday night were Tailback Bernie Dudley, still recovering from bruises sustained in the Iowa game, and Center Jim Millham, shaken up severely in practice last week.

Hurt Garibaldi Had To 'Give'

... Dotson Loses

BY DON STRASHEIM

(Star Sports Staff Member)

Dirty Ernie Dusek took advantage of a very unfortunate accident Tuesday night to win two straight falls from Ralph Garibaldi.

Garibaldi threw his knee out of joint trying a flying mare off the ropes and Dusek began working on the injured leg.

In the opening bout Jack Pesek and Danny Plechas wrestled to a 30-minute draw. Pesek has an injured shoulder and was not up to his usual form.

Dot Dotson found that a good little girl is better than a so-so big girl. Little red-headed Carol Cook came back after losing the first fall to the blonde Miss Dotson and won two straight to take the match.

BALL OF FIRE

Carol, a dynamic ball of fire nad a cousin of All-American footballer Bob Williams, used a flying tackle and an arm lock for her first fall and went into a body press for the final fall at 38:05.

Garibaldi hurt his knee coming off the ropes and Dusek could think of no hold to use other than a step-over toe hold. He made it "give" after 21 minutes.

Garibaldi could not leave the ring on his weak leg but managed to move it after the rest period. He fought off the ugly Omaha man until 20:40 when Ernie again applied the step-over toe hold. This time Dusek applied so much pressure to the foot that it caused a minor strain of Garibaldi's ankle.

Referee Tom Novak was highly criticized for his failure to keep Dusek off the injured California wrestler. Several times the crowd started the chant, "We want a good ref."

There's An Uprising At Kansas State

HEADMASTER J. William Glassford, a coach who takes 'em one at a time, is worried over the immediate business at hand.

He fears the Kansas State Wildcats, the Saturday business at Manhattan, Kans., where the home team always fights just like its namesake.

As direct reasons for his worries, Glassford will point out the following salient facts:

(1) His Huskers, in losing 28-7 to Texas Christian Saturday, showed they have a long way to go both offensively and defensively.

(2) Kansas State, under its fiery new mentor, Bill Meek, and bolstered by a great group of frosh and sophs, showed plenty Saturday in holding well-stocked Iowa University to a tight 16-0 decision.

(3) The maestro still has memories of the 1949 game at Manhattan and the 1950 game in Lincoln with the Wildcats.

In his first year at the Husker helm, Glassford took a confident squad, favored by three touchdowns, to the Wildcats' home bailiwick.

Only a 100-yard kickoff runback by Ron Clark and a long series of breaks produced a narrow 14-7 Husker victory. Kansas State simply pushed the Scarlet and Cream all over the turf.

Before the Huskers found themselves a year ago, the Wildcats led, 12-0, at the end of the first quarter. Only the fact that the K-State squad was wafer-thin produced a Husker victory.

Meek, at 30 years one of the youngest head coaches in the nation, showed in spring ball that he came to Kansas State to develop a winning team. He immediately launched a long-range building process (peak is 1955) and with Athletic Director Laurence (Moon) Mullins, the old Notre Dame fullback, scoured the Kansas high schools for talent.

They came up with plenty of new muscle-on-the-hoof as can be evidenced by the Iowa showing.

MEEK played blocking back for Bob Neyland at Tennessee in 1941-42. Mr. Neyland stresses all-out blocking and tackling of the old school. Mr. Meek learned his lessons well.

As an infantry captain, Meek coached the Fort Benning, Ga., Doughboys to the National Service championship in 1946. After his discharge, he joined Jim Tatum on the Maryland staff.

"We'll probably use more freshmen and sophomores than any other Big Seven schools this fall," Meek says. "Although we have some pretty good boys back from last year's team, we don't have enough. You can't expect freshmen to play on equal terms with some of the players they will face this fall, although we do feel that we have some fine new football prospects enrolled at K-State."

Said Head Coach Len Raffensperger of Iowa after the K-State game: "We just didn't have much punch today. Kansas State hustled, and on our scoring opportunities, there were occasions when we didn't meet their hustle. That Verl Switzer saved them two touchdowns."

SWITZER, by the way, constitutes one of the major differences between the 1950 and 1951 K-State teams.

He was the Negro boy, as you'll recall, who impressed so heavily here against the Husker frosh last fall. A deadly tackler, a 110 flat hundred man, backed by 190 pounds, he's being used as a defensive specialist.

The fact that Switzer is being used on defense possibly hints that the Wildcats' running attack is vastly improved over a year ago.

All in all, the Kansas State picture might be summed up as "deeper all along the line."

Like the Huskers, they are primarily a frosh and soph outfit. If the Huskers, they are in the midst of a building process.

These are two green teams to which anything can happen—and probably will.

So please, let's just rate this Saturday game as a toss-up and let it go at that.

Plainsmen Acquire Ex-S.M.U. Frosh Grid Ace; Starkel Back

NEBRASKA Wesleyan university football veteran who last week announced he was quitting school Tuesday came back and rejoined Coach Roy Robertson's football squad.

Bob Starkel, senior three-letter guard from Lincoln, who had quit to work, told Robertson he was quitting his job and would finish his college work instead.

Simultaneously with Starkel's leaving, Robertson had acquired the services of Dick Hartnett, former Trinity high of Sioux City line star who played freshman ball at Southern Methodist university.

PAID BY BELL

Matty Bell, the SMU head master, told Robertson that Hartnett not only is eligible, but is a fair country ball player.

"He could play some ball for us if he had chosen to stay here," Bell commented.

The 5-11, 200-lb. guard played with the offensive and defensive units against Wayne last Friday with steady effectiveness, particularly on defense.

Meanwhile, Robertson continued to drill his club on pass offense, blocking and tackling in preparation for Saturday night's contest with Kearney State.

NEW PLAYS

The Plainsman tutor added several new plays to his offensive repertoire and praised the work of Wendell Carraker, Harvard junior, who was moved to offensive tackle from his regular blocking backfield job last week.

The Plainsmen should be at full offensive strength for Saturday night's tilt. No major hurts were suffered against Wayne State.

Nittany Lions To Villanova

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(Lincoln Star Special)—Penn State claims an edge on Villanova in all-time football competition but the Nittany Lions still want to win Saturday's game at Allentown more than any previous game of the series.

Much of the inspiration for this attitude comes from Joe Bedenk, who scouted the Wildcats against Army and who still recalls how Villanova spoiled his debut as head coach in 1949.

That was the year Bedenk took over after 20 years as line coach and opened what looked as a promising campaign against Villanova. The final count, 26-7, favored the Wildcats.

"That was a good Villanova team, one of the best," Bedenk recalls. "But it still hurt me to lose to them in my first game."

Bedenk, now back in his more familiar role as head coach, thinks the Wildcats have another crack team.

Westerners Fighting To Keep Grip On Top Rung Of Ratings

BY DON STRASHEIM
(Star Sports Staff Member)

Thursday night the six-man football enthusiasts in Nebraska will get a chance to find out what team in the state is the best according to the ratings.

For the second week Axtell is leading The Star's six-man ratings with a very strong Lincoln Cathedral club running second.

Axtell will attempt to stretch its win streak to 34 games when they tangle with Coach Vince Aldrich and the Cathedral Bluebirds at Minden Thursday night.

Last week Axtell ground out a 27-19 win over Huntley and Cathedral had little difficulty with St. Pats of Fremont in winning 67-18.

HAYES CENTER lost a 21-6 verdict to Madrid to drop them out of the

With a 30-19 margin over Crofton Wayne Prep remains at fifth. Coach Paul Zing's Platte Center crew mangled Shelby 58-0.

In seventh position is Wilcox after winning their third game, 42-13. Riverton was the loser.

EPILER GAME

Chester moves up by virtue of a 48-12 win over Alexandria. Coach Reuben Schleifer's six-man crew will be primed for Concordia Thursday night in the fourth annual Stephen Epler Day game.

Latest victim of North Loup was Spaulding Academy by the score, 49-6.

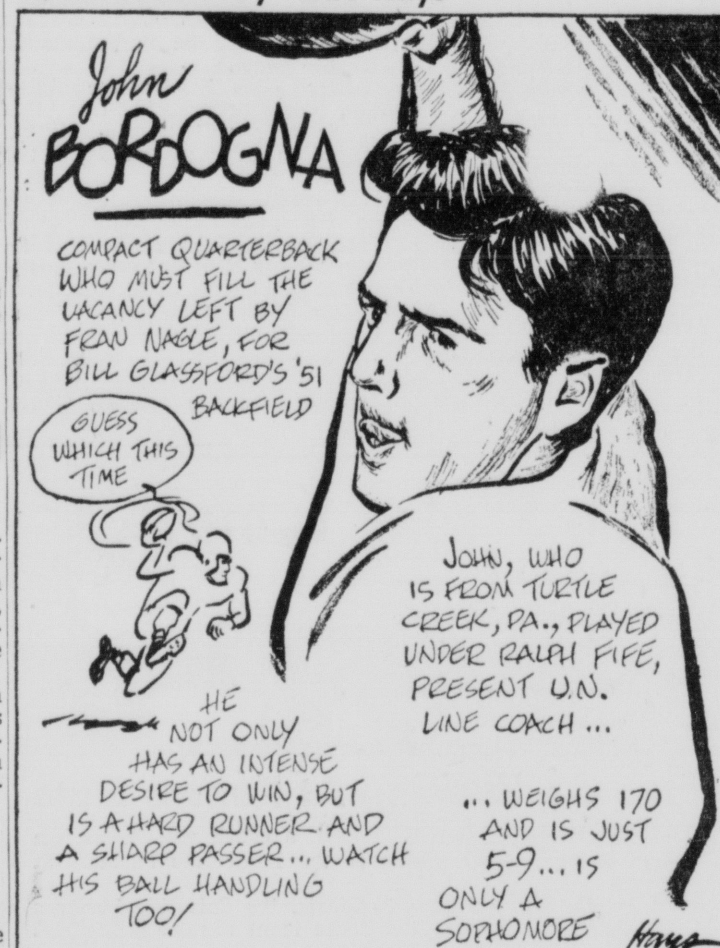

Newcomer to the top ten is Big Springs with a pair of wins. The Trojans beat Sutherland 22-8, and romped over Wellen 49-0.

Palisade ran rough-shod over Kenesaw 46-0 and McCool Junction knocked off Fairmont in other top six-man action.

Doniphan is coming fast and managed to mangle Shickley, 50-12. Gresham has also shown power with a 51-18 win over Rising City and a 54-12 conquest of Ulysses.

Madrid may be another team to be reckoned with after its 21-6 win over Hayes Center.

Bright Surpasses Yardage Record

NEW YORK — (AP) — When Johnny Bright rushed and passed 242 yards while Drake was beating Bradley university last Saturday night he established a new collegiate football record.

The Drake back, collegiate total offense and rushing leader for 1951 with 727 and 444 yards, respectively, has travelled 5,077 yards since taking over the bulk of his team's plunging and passing chores in 1949.

The 5,077 yards in two and a fraction seasons top the record of 4,871 hung up by Charlie Justice in four seasons at North Carolina, 1946 through 1949.

THE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The more we read about the Lithofold investigation the more it appears that "Meet Me in St. Louis, Louis" was the theme song of the RFC.

But we still think the Washington democrats who took the hams should get together with the States Island republicans, who are involved with shortweight lobsters, for a picnic.

It didn't take Dewey long to get after those republicans and I hear he sent a message to Washington reading, "National leaders, please copy."

Fortunately, crows and chisellers in office are in the minority. It just seems like they have a majority when we look at our tax bills.

An dthere's even some hope that the freeze has set in there and we're perfectly willing to let George do it.

Sen. George of Georgia has reached the reasonable conclusion that the way to curb a spendthrift is not to give him all he asks for.

SHREVEPORT, La.—There isn't much room under an auto hood. Just ask Kenneth Causey who was trapped there for three hours.

Causey had parked his car in downtown Shreveport and locked the keys inside. He crawled under the hood to remove a plate from the dashboard to get the keys. At this point the hood snapped down on the 119-pound Causey.

His calls for help went unheeded. Finally Causey squeezed his fingers out from the hood and continued to call. Two women passed by. They heard the yells, saw the fingers poking out of the car and ran away screaming.

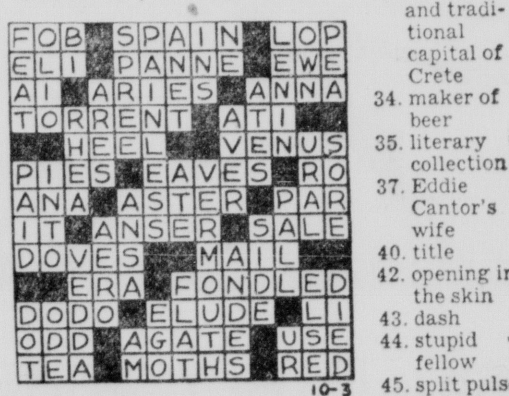

A small boy came to Causey's rescue and freed him from his cramped quarters.

State's Polio Count Drops In Past Week

Twenty new polio cases were reported to the state health department last week, compared to 38 in the preceding seven-day period.

It was the first time in several weeks that a decline had been noted. Health department officials described it as a "seasonal" drop. Total for the year now stands at 329, compared to 298 a year ago.

Lancaster county had four cases.

Otoe had three. Adams, Dakota, Dodge and Saunders had two each.

Gage, Howard, Kimball, Nemaha and Valley had one each. For the first time since the polio season started, Douglas county failed to report any new cases.
